A VERY EXCITING CONTEST

Ed Hanlon Signs to Manage and Captain the Baltimore Team.

BOSTON VICTORIOUS ONCE MORE.

The Senators Beat the Clevelanders in a Close Argument.

SILVER KING TWIRLS A WINNING GAME

Harry Wright's lucky men got the worst of it yesterday and the home team won a very creditable game. There is always great satisfaction in defeating

The victory yesterday had to be hustled for, and Mark Baldwin's pitching had very much indeed to do with it. There are some very useful citizens with the stick in the Quaker City lot, but Mark had them at his mercy yesterday. And the most remarkable thing of all was that he did not send a man to base on balla. His pitching was just as good as has been seen here fo many a long day, and the notion of Manage Buckenberger playing him as often as po

The change in the team seemed to wor tolerably well Raymond had few chances at third, but what he had he managed in a highly satisfactory manner. He is evidently a good third baseman, being very active and accurate on ground hits and a clean and speedy thrower. Charley Farrell had no chances in his territory, but he has been there before and has shown that he can do his work there in great style.

Outside of two very excusable errors by Bierbauer and Shugart the fielding of the home players was admirable and their general play and judgment was good.

To be sure the mistakes of the visitors had much to do with the result of the game

The first four runs made by the home talent were secured almost entirely by errors and this was exceedingly discouraging to Carsey who pitched in rare form. He is a capital little pitcher. He kept base hits down wonderfully, but when the ball was hit it was at very opportune stages and this helped the victory materially.

A Very Lively Interruption.

In the fourth inning there was a bult called because Cross went to but before his turn. On the score card Mulvey was ahead of Cross, but Cross for the first two times at but went in aliend of Mulvey. In the fourth inning, after Cross was thrown out at first, Mulvey made a hit, and then the umpire was appealed to. This was a long debut reconsidered his decision and declared Mulvey out There was a man out before Cross went to but of course. Cross was given another try at but, and Mulvey's single did not count But in the second inning Mulvey went to the bat out of his turn and made a three-bagger, and then is the time he should have been called down. His big hit yielded nothing, however. There were about 1,000 people present, and they enjoyed the game from start to finish. It was not one-sided, and there always appeared to be a hope for the visitors. This kept up the interest, but Baldwin kept up his effectiveness to the end, and that settled the matter.

In the second inning, after Farrell was ont, Beekley knocked a fly up above third base. Mulvey tried for it, and it was so easy that Joe had great difficulty in dropping it. Beckley went to second on the error. Shugart made a sacrifice, and Beckley reached third and scored on a splendid single by Corkhill. Singles by Mack and Baldwin scored Corkhill and two runs were

More Timely Runs.

In the next inning Bierbauer led off and got his base on balls. He reached second on Raymond's sacrifice, and Farrell's grounder was muffed by Allen, allowing Farrell to reach first and Bierbauer third. Beckley knocked a long fly to right center, which Cross got in a very brilliant manner and Bierbaner scored on the throw in. Shugart's single to center and a fumble by Cross scored Farrell.

Then the visitors took to making a run of two In the third inning Baldwin pitched up an easy one to big Sam Thompson and Samuel cracked it square on the nose, banging the ball right to the right-center fence for a clean home run. In the fifth inning, after Allen and Carsey were ont, Hamilton was hit by a pitched ball and of course stole second. Thompson sent a very hot grounder to Shugart and little "Shug" allowed the ball to get past him. Hamilton scored and that is all the runs the visitors got in the

In the sixth inning Beckley led off with aplendid three-bagger to the right-field tence and scored on Shugart's single to center field. That ended all the run getting.

NEWSY NOTES FROM NEARBY TOWNS

ROCHESTER, PA., May 5. - [Special.]-The Council of Conference called to consider the matter of recognizing the Congregational Church recently organized here by the followers of Rev. Joseph H. Bausman, met at 3 P. M. to-day. Ministers and lay delegates from the Congregational churches of Pittsburg, Allegheny, Meadville, Braddock and Steubenville were present. The letter of dismissal granted Mr. Dausman by the Allegheny Presbytery was read and found to be in due form. It was upon this letter that the association based its action in receiving Mr. Bausman. Mr. Bausman then read the following statement of his doctrinal belief:

doctrinal belief:

In order to facilitate your work as a council in determining whether you may rightfully recognize me as a minister of the gospel and receive me into the fellowship of your association, I have prepared this brief statement of my beliefs concerning Christian doctrines, which I offer to you in connection with my letter of dismissal from the Presbytery of Allegheny. I accept for substance of doctrine the Westminster Confession of Faith and the general confession of the Congregational pody, such as the Boston confession and the Burial Hill declaration.

The statement proceeded in detail to state

The statement proceeded in detail to state his doctrines, all of which were orthodox. When Mr. Bausman had finished reading his statement, he was asked by Rev. Mr. Young why the Presbytery had objected to him if his doctrinal beliefs were in accordance with his statement. He replied that ance with his statement. He replied that one point raised by Presbytery was as to his expressed disbelief in the inerrancy of the Scriptures. He said that, inasmuch as he nor any living man had ever seen the original manuscript, he refused to believe that no errors had been made.

Another point of objection was his private and personal opinion and nope that the doctrine of a larger hope may be true. He had held this, he said, as a private belief, and had barely hinted at it once in a sermon. This belief he had revealed in private conversations which should have been regarded as confidential, but which had been reported to the Presbytery.

The council decided to recognize the new organization and to receive it into fellowship. The council then adjourned, and later partook of supper, served by the ladies of the church. At tonight's meeting Rev. Mr. Bausman was formally installed, and the other exercises incidental to such occasions were held.

Greco, an Italian with a family in Naples, and Rochet, an Arab, had a dicker over a revolver, and while they were trading the Arab shot the Italian. Italians overtook the Arab, and but for the arrival of the policemen they would have murdered him. The Italian, in his dying statement, exonerated the Arab, but the dying man's friends say there was a secret enmity between the men, and that the Arab was jealous of the Italian's attentions to his (the Arab's) wife. The Arab pleads innocence.

firing at the same time to scare him. The man whistled and attacked him, and in the encounter which ensued the man made a motion as if to draw a revolver, when Pipes broke loose from him and fired.

County Commissioner Johnson testified that it was only three or four minutes until Mr. Pipes called to the nearest neighbor, Berry Hill, knocking on the door, and tried to awaken him. Mr. Johnson roomed next door to Pipes, and, looking out of the window, inquired what was wronz. Mr. Pipes replied: "Come down quick; I have killed a man.
